The "Fort Worth 5," is a name attributed to five individuals who were subpoenaed to testify before a Federal Grand Jury in Fort Worth, Texas, inquiring into smuggling of arms to Northern Ireland. They were granted immunity from prosecution by a Judge in Fort Worth and were jailed on contempt of court charges following their continued refusal to testify. This case, which was investigated by the U.S. Treasury Department, has received considerable publicity in Irish newspapers both in the U.S. and abroad. The FBI conducted no active investigation regarding this matter. According to news media accounts, the five individuals involved were Daniel Crawford, Mathias Reilly, Paschal Morahan, Kenneth Tierney and Thomas Laffey.

The above information conflicts with other information in possession of the Bureau which was received by other field offices from sources who are providing coverage in the Irish field. Bureau files indicate that the IRA is not active in the U.S. and has no chapters or official representatives in the U.S.; however, there are several organizations active in the U.S. which support factions of the IRA. According to Bureau files, the NICRA is a civil rights movement based and headquartered in Belfast, Ireland, and there is no known representatives nor classified by 1978.

Re:

chapters in the U. S. Those individuals associated with NICRA in Northern Ireland generally favor the Official Wing of the IRA, whereas the INAC, which has numerous small chapters throughout the U. S., favors the Provisional Wing of the IRA in Northern Ireland. The National Association for Irish Freedom (NAIF) in the U. S. supports NICRA and in turn the Official Wing of the IRA; however, there is no indication that NAIF is authorized to speak on behalf of NICRA in the U. S. Additionally, the Irish Republican Clubs, U. S. and Canada support the Official Wing of the IRA.

Review of Bureau files fails to identify any communications submitted by the Los Angeles Office during the past year under the captions of "Irish Republican Army," "Irish Republican Clubs, U. S. and Canada," "Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association" or "Irish Northern Aid Committee."

With regard to your request set forth in referenced communication, action is being held in abeyance pending clarification of the above items. By return airtel, furnish a summary of specific information pertaining to the IRA, NICRA and INAC, identifying by title and date communication submitted to the Bureau during the previous six-month period wherein this information was reported.

You are additionally directed to submit current communications to the Bureau in form suitable for dissemination by cover airtel, utilizing the respective captions of IRA, NICRA and INAC, incorporating all information in possession of Los Angeles which has not been previously submitted to the Bureau in form suitable for dissemination.

Re: Francis Joseph McNamara, aka 105-241806

Capitol Hill, Washington, D.C., briefed Congressmen and their staff and were subsequently guests of honor at the reception hosted by two Congressmen. Local organizers of the above activities included Father Sean McNamara of Baltimore (identifiable with Father Sean Gerald McNamara, File 105-236534, File 105-161651) and the Irish Northern Aid Committee (INAIC), File 87-8299, INAC 87-2700.

Emir P. Baddaigh, according to enclosed Dublin teletype, is President of the Provisional Sinn Fein, a legal political organization. O'Bradaigh is also a well known official of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), the illegal military arm of the Sinn Fein. He has been involved in top-level planning of Provisional Sinn Fein/IRA activities and thus, since the Provisional IRA has been the main source of violence in Northern Ireland, it is felt that O'Bradaigh bears heavy responsibility for a serious and sustained campaign of terrorism. It was further felt that O'Bradaigh will raise monies in the U.S. for the IRA.

Rebutel advised recipients of McNamara's status as a member of Parliament from Northern Ireland and his identification with Provisional IRA objectives.

Above activities of subjects in Washington, D.C., indicates a possible violation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended.

Recipients immediately endeavor to ascertain whereabouts and activities of subjects as well as any information corroborating the above State Department information. Specifically, WFO should contact established sources to verify the above, check INS and State Department records and verify their departure from the U.S.

All offices submit results of investigation in form suitable for dissemination by cover airtel.

In order to coordinate the above investigation, WFO is being designated office of origin in captioned matters.

Memorandum

TO: DIRECTOR, FBI (61-7606)
FROM: SAC, NEW YORK (100-7828)(P)
SUBJECT: IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY (IRA) IS-NORTHERN IRELAND

NY has maintained contact with its established sources and also with other US Government agencies relative to Irish activities in the NY area. The situation at the present time is permeated with political undertones, and financial contributions in the past have been rather substantial and the Irish Northern Aid Committee (INAC) has collected the bulk of this money and has forwarded same to its representatives in Northern Ireland. As investigations have disclosed, some of the money collected in the US is finding its way into the hands of the militant Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA). These financial contributions currently are being forwarded from the headquarters of INAC, Bronx, NY, either by bank drafts or by personal courier.

Investigations conducted by the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau over the past year and a half, has to a great extent discouraged the purchase of weapons for the IRA in the US. The jailing of "The Fort Worth Five" has also been a contributory factor in discouraging individuals from purchasing weapons in the US.

REC 45 61 - 7606 - 633
3 - Bureau (RM)
(1 - Legat, London)(100-1)
1 - New York

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds Regularly on the Payroll Savings Plan
The jailing of "The Fort Worth Five," has also had an opposite effect on many Irish Americans in the New York area in that they feel that they, "The Fort Worth Five," were held in Texas without cause, and the recent decision to free these individuals could very well lead to renewed efforts by Irish-American groups to obtain weapons not only in the US but elsewhere.

The recent appearance in the New York area on various television shows by representatives of the present and previous Government of Ireland has not had the desired effect, that is, of discouraging Irish-American organizations from contributing money to Northern Ireland. The general reaction of representatives of the Government of Ireland appealing to Irish Americans to stop their contributions, has not the desired effect, but in many instances, the contributions have increased because they look upon these representatives of the Government of Ireland as mere puppets of the British Government.

New York will continue to maintain contact with its sources and will endeavor to develop quality informants who would be in a position to furnish significant information relative to the financial contributions being collected in the New York area and elsewhere and the methods used to funnel this money into Northern Ireland.

New York, at this point, cannot suggest any way in which this money can be legally stopped.

According to the registration statement filed with the United States Department of Justice, INAC claims that all contributions are being used for humanitarian purposes in Northern Ireland.

Re: Irish Republican Army (IRA)
61-7606

The FBI has alerted confidential sources who are in a position to develop information regarding Irish matters to be particularly alert for any information in this regard. The FBI is also participating with other interested U. S. Government agencies in a program that has been established to provide closer cooperation and coordination among the various U. S. Government agencies having an interest in the Irish situation and thus it is hoped that some of the above-mentioned gaps can be removed through the effective operation of the above program.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT RECORDS, REVIEWED BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE FBI ON 11/30/73, DISCLOSED KEVIN MICHAEL O' MALLEY WAS ISSUED PASSPORT NUMBER C 1393294 ON 6/10/72, AT BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS, FOR PROPOSED PLEASURE TRAVEL TO IRELAND, THE UNITED KINGDOM, AND SPAIN FOR 14 DAYS. ON HIS APPLICATION DATED 6/1/72, AT BOSTON HE STATED HIS INTENTION TO DEPART VIA AIR APPROXIMATELY 7/72. HE SAID HE EXPECTED TO TAKE ANOTHER TRIP ABROAD WITHIN TWO YEARS AND HAD TAKEN TWO PREVIOUS TRIPS ABROAD WITHIN THE LAST 12 MONTHS. TO THE QUESTION, "HAVE YOU OR ANYONE INCLUDED IN THIS APPLICATION BEEN ISSUED OR INCLUDED IN A U.S. PASSPORT?" HE ANSWERED "NO." THIS PASSPORT IS VALID FOR FIVE YEARS' TRAVEL TO ALL COUNTRIES EXCEPT CUBA, NORTH KOREA AND NORTH VIETNAM.

END PAGE ONE

DEC 18 1973
O'Malley said he was born 4/23/47, at Clinton, Massachusetts, and the records show his birth certificate was seen.

O'Malley gave his permanent residence as, and requested his passport be mailed to, Wilde Road, Shirley, Massachusetts 01464. His home telephone number was shown as 617-425-4034. He listed his father as Michael O'Malley, born at County Mayo, Ireland, on 1/1/16, and his mother as Esther M. Evans, born at Marlboro, Massachusetts, on 3/24/16. He said both parents were U. S. citizens. O'Malley requested his father be notified at Wilde Road, Shirley, Massachusetts, in the event of accident or death. He said he was never married.

O'Malley was described as five feet eight inches in height, red hair, and blue eyes. His occupation was shown as merchant marine officer and his social security number as 020-34-5135. Identifying document submitted was listed as U. S. Merchant Mariner's document 020034-5135.

On February 28, 1974, a representative of the U.S. Department of Treasury, Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms Bureau (ATF), Falls Church, Virginia, furnished the following information:

During the past several months, ATF has been conducting an investigation concerning a [redacted] and [redacted] both from Washington, D.C., allegedly involved in smuggling weapons to Ireland. About February 15, 1974, [redacted] illegally purchased $15,000 worth of weapons from a gun-wholesaler in Laurel, Maryland. These weapons were picked up by [redacted] transported to Montgomery County, Maryland, where they were transferred to a rental truck being driven by [redacted] (phonetic). The weapons were then transported to New York where [redacted] and [redacted] were arrested for violation of Title 1, Gun Control Act. [redacted] and [redacted] allegedly belong to an organization of Irish nationalists and sympathizers who have been purchasing weapons for the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

SUBJECT: IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY
IS - IRELAND

On 2/6/74, Resident Special Agent, U.S. Customs, 400 Delancey Boulevard, Newark, New Jersey, was contacted concerning instant matter by S.A. He recalled no investigations by his office of arms.

Any legal shipment of arms abroad would require an export license. For a search of U.S. Customs indices, the name of the company involved would be needed.

On 3/6/74, Alchohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division, U.S. Treasury, 970 Broad Street, Newark, New Jersey, advised SAC that he could recall no instance said supporters of the I.R.A. are active in the United States in efforts to purchase arms for eventual shipment to Ireland. He said that it is not so difficult for the weapons to be secured; the real problem for the I.R.A. supporters is how to get them out of the United States and into Ireland. He had heard of cases where attempts were made to smuggle arms to Ireland in coffins and by shipment from Canada on coal carrying ships. He agreed, but, in the absence of some clues as to the identity of the firm, Alchohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division could not know where to look.

Enclosed herewith for London is one copy of reNKlet.

Recipients are reminded that violations of illegal exportation of arms from the U. S. are matters under the primary jurisdiction of U. S. Customs and although the FBI maintains an intelligence interest in individuals who are illegally exporting arms to the IRA, we do not conduct active investigations. Information received in this regard is furnished to U. S. Customs for appropriate investigation.

It is noted that U. S. Customs has a representative in London; therefore, Legat, London, disregard leads set forth in referenced Newark communication and refer any future similar inquiries to the Customs representative in London.

TORONTO — (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said yesterday that several illegal shipments of weapons have been seized in four Southern Ontario centres and seven men born in Ireland have been arrested.

RCMP believe the shipments were destined for the Irish Republican Army, which is waging a guerrilla war against the British in Northern Ireland.

Insp. George Scott said a machine-gun, semi-automatic rifles, hand grenades, Sten guns and parts were seized in recent raids in St. Catharines, Tavistock and Toronto and at the United States border at Windsor.

Literature seized in the raids indicated that the weapons were to be shipped to the IRA in Ireland, some via the U.S., he said.

BELFAST-BORN

Six of the seven arrested were born in the Northern Ireland city of Belfast, police said. All have been charged with conspiracy to export arms.

Joseph Myles, 51, of Garden City, Mich., was arrested Monday on the Ambassador Bridge as he was attempting to leave Canada.

Fifteen high-power rifles of the type issued to NATO forces and manufactured by the Fabrique Nationale (FN) in Belgium were confiscated, an RCMP spokesman in Windsor said.

Myles' arrest led to further seizures and arrests, Insp. Scott said.

Dear Sir:

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY

I am greatly disturbed by a statement apparently issued 'off-hand' by someone in the San Antonio office of your Bureau, giving a fund-raising drive for the Provisional Irish Republican Army a clean bill of health. This incredible message appears on page 6-B, San Antonio Express-News, June 22, 1974:

"The F.B.I. gave the I.R.A. and its supporters a clean bill of health in the United States."

Surely, the financial support of a terrorist group, which is outlawed in both Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, should not be promoted by the F.B.I. If you say "promoted" because the statement will surely be used in soliciting local government approval, I urge you to discuss this with the San Antonio office, F.B.I., and hope some clarification can be made.

Yours sincerely,

J. F. C. Moore

IRA Donations

Perhaps you could tell me if any city permits I might require in order to solicit contributions for the IRA in Ireland.

G. R. J.

WUD YE CARE TO BE MAKIN' A DONATION ME GOOD MON?

Before we checked with the city, we first discreetly discussed this with the FBI, without giving your identity. We were afraid your attempts to solicit funds for the provisional Irish Republican Army would be illegal or in some way suspect.

The FBI, however, gave the IRA and its supporters a clean bill of health in the United States. The only trouble IRA has had in the U.S. was an attempt at gun running on the East Coast.

So you may solicit support and donations for the IRA without being placed on any "subversive" list, FBI officials said.

Whether the city will give its blessing to solicitation depends on information you supply to the Better Business Bureau and the City Solicitation Commission.

The forms for an application to solicit have already been mailed to you. They should be filled out and notarized and returned to the Better Business Bureau.

If everything appears in order, you will be given a solicitation permit. The permit costs nothing.

Mr. J. P. C. Moore

Dear Mr. Moore:

I have received your letter of June 22 and appreciate the interest which prompted you to write.

It is my wish to advise you that the information which was published by the "San Antonio Express-News" in the column "Action Express" did not accurately portray information supplied to them by our San Antonio Office. For your information, a representative of the newspaper contacted one of the officials at the FBI Office in San Antonio and asked if it was illegal to solicit contributions for the Irish Republican Army. The newspaper was advised that solicitation of such funds was not a violation of any federal law within the investigative jurisdiction of the FBI. No one at the FBI Office in San Antonio gave the Irish Republican Army "a clean bill of health" nor was there any conversation of any "subversive" list.

In the event you have any additional questions, please do not hesitate to contact me or one of my representatives in San Antonio.

Sincerely yours,

Memorandum

TO: Mr. McDermott
FROM: Mr. Heim
DATE: 7-2-74
SUBJECT: J. F. C. Moore Letter to the Director

BACKGROUND:

By letter dated 6-22-74, to the Director, correspondent, Alamo Heights, Texas, advised he was greatly disturbed by a statement allegedly made by someone in the San Antonio Office giving a fund-raising drive for the Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA) "a clean bill of health." He said this information was printed in the June 22nd edition of the "San Antonio Express-News." Moore stated that financial support of such a terrorist group should not be "promoted" by the FBI and he concluded his letter by stating he urged the Director to discuss this matter with the San Antonio Office and hoped that some clarification could be made. The Director noted on the incoming letter "Ack. K."

INFORMATION IN BUREAU FILES:

CURRENT DEVELOPMENTS:

Attached is a copy of the newspaper item referred to by correspondent which was received from the San Antonio Office.

ASAC Karl L. Stefansson, San Antonio Office, advised he had handled the telephone call from the "San Antonio Express-News," and the item as printed did not reflect what he said, nor did it convey the tenor of his conversation with the newspaper. ASAC Stefansson said that he in no way gave the IRA "a clean bill of health" nor did he make the statement that people soliciting support or donations for the IRA would not be placed on any "subversive" list.

RE: J. F. C. MOORE

list. He said in response to the newspaper's inquiry, if people were willing to contribute to the IRA, it was not illegal to his knowledge.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the attached letter be sent to correspondent, advising him that the information in the "San Antonio Express-News" did not accurately reflect information supplied by our San Antonio Office.
July 17, 1974

Mr. Clarence M. Kelley
Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D.C. 20535

Dear Mr. Kelley:

A copy of your July 3, 1974, letter to Mr. J.F.C. Moore of 5915 Broadway, Alamo Heights, Texas, has been forwarded to this column.

I take strong exception to your claims that the information published in Action/Express "did not accurately portray information supplied to them by our San Antonio Office."

I particularly object to the denial of any conversation about a subversive list. That was the last question asked of your agent in a four or five minute discussion. He denied there were any lists of subversives kept by the FBI.

So I rephrased the question and asked if the person would be under suspicion in any way for solicitation of funds. The answer was no.

There was also considerable discussion of the present status of IRA activities in the United States and mention made of a gun-running attempt through an East Coast port which was thwarted by law enforcement officials.

I was assured that even membership in the IRA (as opposed to mere sympathetic fund-raising) would not necessarily get a person entangled with the bureau unless the person engaged in some illegal activity.

Unfortunately, the IRA seems to be a much more controversial topic in Washington, D.C., than in San Antonio, but your agent here apparently found that out.

We took your agent's statements at face value. We did not intend to embarrass the bureau. Certainly, if we had printed the comment that the FBI keeps no lists of subversives, the bureau's credibility would have dropped several notches in the minds of many of our readers.
I am also very curious why, if the statements were as incorrect as your letter implies, you discussed this matter with someone outside the paper without first bringing it to our attention.

We have had a good working relationship with your local office and hope this incident in no way hampers the exchange of information in the future.

However, we will stand by the statements as printed.

Very truly yours,

DAVID SHUTE
Action/Express

cc: J.F.C. Moore

In view of the fact that the initial telephonic reply to the newspaper by your Office and the correspondence with Mr. Moore resulted in an apparent misunderstanding, you should personally contact Mr. Shute and acknowledge receipt of his letter of July 17, 1974. Mr. Shute should be advised the statement in the correspondence to Mr. Moore that the column "did not accurately portray information supplied to them by our San Antonio Office" referred specifically to the conclusion in the column that the FBI gave the IRA "a clean bill of health."

Mr. Shute should also be advised that there was obviously a misunderstanding concerning his question about solicitation of support and donations for the IRA, and this was further compounded by the correspondence with Mr. Moore. He should be informed that the full and accurate answer to that inquiry should have been that "solicitation of funds for the IRA was not a violation of any Federal law within the investigative jurisdiction of the FBI provided that the solicitor registered and complied with provisions of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938."

with Mr. Shute, you should acknowledge to him that the statement made in Mr. Moore's letter concerning the absence of any conversation of any "subversive" list was incomplete and misleading, as this statement was meant to be in reference only to discussions of individuals soliciting for the IRA. The statement was meant to relate directly and solely to the IRA, since the first portion of that sentence indicated that no one in the FBI Office in San Antonio gave the IRA "a clean bill of health."

You should also express the regrets of the Bureau that the personal contact with the newspaper did not occur prior to his receipt of Mr. Moore's letter. Mr. Shute should be informed it was the Bureau's intention to contact the newspaper promptly in order to clarify our position as it relates to his column. You should advise Mr. Shute that the FBI appreciates the good working relationship which has existed between his newspaper and your Office, and sincerely hopes that that relationship will continue. He should be assured that this incident will in no way hamper the exchange of information between his newspaper and the Bureau in the future, and that we value their continued assistance.

The scathingly anti-Nixon movie, "Millhouse: A White Comedy," was heavily financed by three nieces of Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller.

Rockefeller had nothing to do with his niece's generosity. His brother Laurance's daughter, Laura, ponied up $30,000. And two of David Rockefeller's daughters, Abby and Peggs, gave $5,000 and $2,000 respectively.

The film cost $200,000. So far, the Rockefeller women have gotten back $32,000 of their $37,000 investment.

Although abashed that we had learned of his Rockefeller financing, the producer of "Millhouse," Emile de Antonio, reluctantly confirmed that the nieces put up the money. He said he did not want an inference that the money came from the senior Rockefellers.

"As far as I know, it was a totally individual thing," de Antonio said.

His "Millhouse" told in factual, but stinging detail the story of Nixon's climb to power. It so infuriated the White House that the "plumbers" were sicced on de Antonio and an FBI check was run on him.

On 7/2/74, Supervisor of Militant Squad, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in Brooklyn, New York, advised that their agency has not had any recent developments in the New York area indicating illegal gun purchasing in behalf of the IRA. They stated they currently have investigations in progress regarding individuals suspected of purchasing weapons illegally but that in general, the volume of these cases has decreased in the last year due to several successful prosecutions by BATF.

On 7/9/74, furnished two newspaper articles regarding the conviction in Baltimore Federal Court of four men for attempting to smuggle arms and ammunition from New York to Ireland. These four men were sentenced to six years imprisonment.

On 9/26/74, was recontacted and he advised that he had no information of value to report regarding his agency's investigations with illegal gun-smuggling activities involving the IRA in the New York area.

NYO will recontact these sources to determine if they have any knowledge of recent IRA activities in the New York area.

MEMORANDUM

TO: DIRECTOR, FBI (61-7606)

FROM: CHICAGO (105-3413) (F)

SUBJECT: IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY (IRA) - IRELAND

Date: 11/7/74

Re: my letter dated 10/9/74 and Headquarters letter dated 10/21/74.

Information developed by as made available to FBI Headquarters and Chicago, indicated that adherents of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) have been active in this area.

It would be reasonable to assume that the matter of arms exportation, which is within the primary jurisdiction of United States Customs, is not a singular or isolated effort of local IRA adherents, and that other activities preceded and will follow in any exportation.

It can be logically stated that IRA activity in the United States is indicative of an organization having definite foreign interests and connections. It would follow that those affiliated locally with IRA efforts are representative of subversive elements. The identification of these individuals and the determination of their targets and activities, including foreign elements prone to violence, fall clearly within our overall objective of protecting the internal security of the United States. On this basis Chicago believes that investigation of the above individuals is mandated.

Investigation, however, is being held in abeyance pending FBI Headquarters decision on this matter.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds Regularly on the Payroll Savings Plan
As indicated in referenced communications, subjects are allegedly involved in the illegal exportation of arms from the U.S. to Ireland on behalf of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), which allegation has been referred to U.S. Customs for appropriate investigation as they have primary investigative jurisdiction regarding the illegal exportation of arms. ReCGlets recommended individual FBI investigation of these individuals based on the fact that if these individuals are connected with the IRA, it could logically be assumed that they are engaged in other activities, in addition to that above, on behalf of the IRA and investigation to identify these individuals to determine their targets and activities, including association with foreign elements prone to violence, is warranted under the FBI's responsibilities to protect the internal security of the U.S.

The Bureau concurs with Chicago that if these individuals are connected with the IRA it can logically be assumed that they are engaged in other activities of investigative interest to the FBI. Normally, we would initiate security-type or Registration Act investigations of the above individuals to identify them and to determine the nature of their activities; however, it has been the policy of the FBI that if an individual is already of investigative interest to another Federal...

agency, normally we do not initiate investigation so as not to interfere with that being conducted by the other agency. It is felt that the investigation being conducted by U. S. Customs is of a more serious nature involving possible prosecution of these individuals than a security-type investigation which would be conducted by the FBI.

If after evaluation of this matter you feel separate investigation by the FBI is not warranted, it is suggested that you maintain close contact with U. S. Customs regarding this matter for any information developed pertaining to matters of interest to the FBI. When these individuals are no longer of investigative interest to Customs, advise the Bureau and submit appropriate recommendations if you feel further investigation by the FBI at that time is warranted.

If you feel facts developed to date are so aggravated that simultaneous separate investigation by the FBI is warranted, discuss this matter with the local office of U. S. Customs to determine whether they interpose any objection to our investigation of subjects. Advise Bureau of results and contemplated investigation by your office.

SINCE LEGAT TELEPHONE CALL TO BUREAU 11/26/74 ADVISING PASSAGE OF EMERGENCY BILL TO CURB IRA ACTIVITY IN ENGLAND EXPECTED ON 11/28/74, SITUATION IN PARLIAMENT, LONDON, HAS CHANGED SOMEWHAT, HENCE THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY IS SET FORTH:

ON MONDAY, 11/25/74, HOME SECRETARY ROY JENKINS INTRODUCED EMERGENCY BILLS IN THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT TO CURB IRA ACTIVITY. THIS IS A RESULT OF RECENT IRA BOMBINGS RESULTING IN NUMEROUS DEATHS. IN BRIEF, THE BILL OUTLAWS THE IRA AND MEMBERS AND SUPPORTERS OF THE IRA ARE LIABLE TO FIVE YEARS IMPRISONMENT AND UNLIMITED FINE. IT ALSO CONTAINS MEASURES TO IMPRISON AND FINE ANY ONE WEARING UNIFORM STYLE CLOTHING, SUCH AS ADOPTED BY PROVISIONAL IRA.

JENKINS HIMSELF STATED THAT HE REALIZED THESE MEASURES WERE UNPRECEDENTED IN PEACE TIME AND WOULD BE AN INFRINGEMENT OF CIVIL LIBERTIES, BUT SUCH MEASURES WERE NECESSARY TO CURB TERRORIST ACTIVITIES.

IN ESSENCE, THE BILL WILL GIVE POLICE WIDER POWERS TO SEARCH, SEIZE AND DETAIN PERSONS FOR QUESTIONING SUSPECTED OF IRA ACTIVITY. IT WILL ALSO GIVE POLICE AT PORTS OF ENTRY INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM WIDER POWERS IN QUESTIONING AND DETAINING FOR INVESTIGATION PERSONS ENTERING THE UNITED KINGDOM WHO MAY BE SUSPECTED OF IRA SUPPORT. THE BILL IS SUBJECT TO RENEWAL AFTER SIX MONTHS.

ORIGINALY THE BILL WAS EXPECTED TO BECOME LAW 11/28/74, BUT THERE IS NOW STRONG FEELING BY MANY MP'S THAT THE BILL IS NOT STRONG ENOUGH AND THAT THE DEATH PENALTY SHOULD BE REIMPOSED FOR TERRORIST ACTS. IF THE DEATH PENALTY CLAUSE OF THE BILL GOES TO DEBATE, THE BILL UNDOUBTEDLY WILL BE DELAYED.

A COPY OF THE BILL AND DEBATE IN THE PARLIAMENT WILL BE OBTAINED AND FURNISHED THE BUREAU.

IN ADDITION TO THE ABOVE, POLICE ALREADY HAVE POWERS TO SEARCH AND SEIZE EXPLOSIVES WITHOUT WARRANT UNDER THE EXPLOSIVES SUBSTANCE ACT OF 1883, AND A COPY OF THIS ACT HAS BEEN FURNISHED TO ASSISTANT TO THE DIRECTOR-DEPUTY ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR JAMES B. ADAMS FOLLOWING HIS RECENT VISIT TO LONDON.

INFORMATIVE NOTE

Date 11/27/74

Attached from Legat, London, reports that as a result of recent Irish Republican Army (IRA) bombings in England resulting in numerous deaths, on 11/25/74 Home Secretary Roy Jenkins introduced an emergency bill in the House of Parliament to curb IRA activities.

In brief, bill outlaws IRA and members; supporters of IRA are liable to five years imprisonment and unlimited fines; and contains measures to imprison and fine anyone wearing uniform-type clothing such as adopted by Provisional IRA.

Bill will give police wider powers to search, seize and detain for questioning persons suspected of IRA activity as well as wider powers in questioning and detaining for investigation persons entering the United Kingdom and suspected of IRA support.

Bill was expected to become law 11/28/74 but many MP's feel bill is not strong enough and death penalty should be re-imposed for terrorist acts; if death penalty clause of bill goes to debate, bill will undoubtedly be delayed.

Legat, London, obtaining a copy of bill and debate and upon receipt you will be advised of pertinent details.

You were previously advised by informative note on 11/27/74 of the proposed anti-terrorist bill introduced in the British House of Parliament on 11/25/74 to curb IRA sponsored terrorist activities. It was also indicated at that time that many members of Parliament felt the bill was not strong enough and the death penalty should be reimposed for terrorist acts; however, it was felt that if the death penalty clause of the bill went to debate, the bill would undoubtedly be delayed.

In order to facilitate speedy passage, the Government agreed to a Conservative demand for debate, possibly within two weeks on restoration of capital punishment for terrorist acts. The bill received Royal assent on 11/29/74 and passed before Parliament without amendment. A copy of this bill is attached for your information.

In summary, the bill outlawed the IRA and its members. Supporters of the IRA will be liable to five years in prison and unlimited fine. It also contains measures to imprison and fine anyone wearing uniform style clothing such as adopted by the Provisional IRA.

The bill gives police authorities wider powers to search, seize and detain persons for questioning who are suspected of IRA activity. It additionally gives police authorities at ports of entry into the United Kingdom (UK) wider powers in questioning, detaining, as well as deporting persons entering the UK who may be suspected of IRA support.

For your additional information, on 12/16/74, the State Department made available information indicating the Government of Ireland (GOI) on 12/5/74 introduced a "Criminal Law (Jurisdiction) Bill" in Dail, the main feature of which

Enclosure

Dec 31 1974
Memorandum F. S. Putman, Jr., to Mr. W. R. Wannall
Re: Irish Republican Army (IRA)

is the provision for prosecution in the Republic of Ireland of terrorist-type offenses committed in Northern Ireland. This is a substitute for an extradition bill as the GOI apparently believes that extradition is politically unacceptable. The bill applies to a number of terrorist-type offenses in Northern Ireland, i.e., murder, kidnapping, hijacking, etc., and contains provisions for heavy penalties for relatively minor crimes and wider powers for search and arrest.

The bill also applies anywhere in the world for prosecution in the Republic of those charged with conspiracy to cause an explosion and related offenses. Persons who assist fugitives engaged in these offenses will be subject to prosecution for the same crime as the fugitive himself. The bill is expected to pass after strenuous debate; however, cannot be implemented until corresponding measure is passed by Parliament, where similar bill has not yet been introduced. If after the law is in effect, it is felt that it will probably not be used very often.

ACTION:

None. For information. Efforts will be made to obtain a copy of the bill introduced in the Republic, a copy of which will be made available to you upon receipt.

Measure to Proscribe Organizations will Widen Detention Powers and Allow Deportation

Anti-Terrorism Bill, From the London Times, November 28, 1974

The measure to proscribe organizations engaged in terrorism, and to give the power to exclude from Great Britain and prohibit any individual or company from doing business in Great Britain, is in order to prevent acts of terrorism and to ensure that any contribution in money or otherwise to the resources of a proscribed organization is cut off. The measure will widen detention powers and allow deportation. The measure is in response to the London bombings and the need to prevent acts of terrorism and to ensure that any contribution in money or otherwise to the resources of a proscribed organization is cut off.

Part I: Proscribed Organizations
(1) Subject to subsection (2), an order shall not be made under this section against a person who is a citizen of the United Kingdom or the Channel Islands, who is a member of a proscribed organization, or who is a member of a proscribed organization and who is a citizen of the United Kingdom or the Channel Islands.
(2) The Secretary of State may by order remove an organization from Schedule 1 to the Act.

Part II: Exclusion Orders
(1) The Secretary of State may by order exclude a person from entering, or on his arrival in Great Britain, or after exclusion, from securing the visit of a proscribed organization.
(2) The Secretary of State may by order exclude a person from entering, or on his arrival in Great Britain, or after exclusion, from securing the visit of a proscribed organization. The order may be made in respect of a person who is a member of a proscribed organization, or who is a member of a proscribed organization and who is a citizen of the United Kingdom or the Channel Islands.
(3) A person belonging to a proscribed organization shall not be guilty of an offence under this section by reason of belonging to the organization if he shows that he became a member when it was not a proscribed organization and that he has not since then taken part in any of its activities at any time while it was a proscribed organization.
(4) A person belonging to a proscribed organization shall not be guilty of an offence under this section by reason of belonging to the organization if he shows that he became a member when it was not a proscribed organization and that he has not since then taken part in any of its activities at any time while it was a proscribed organization.

Part III: Offences
(1) Any person who assists another person in any way in the commission of an act of terrorism, or who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by him, or who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by another person, shall be liable under this Act.
(2) Any person who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by him, or who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by another person, shall be liable under this Act.

Part IV: Security of Meetings
(1) Any person who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by him, or who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by another person, shall be liable under this Act.
(2) Any person who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by him, or who明知is or ought to have known of an act of terrorism committed by another person, shall be liable under this Act.
6. (1) Where an exclusion order is made against a person who is not a citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies it shall be an order prohibiting that person from being within the United Kingdom and Colonies unless the person is specifically exempted from the order by the Secretary of State by a consent order made in accordance with section 21 of the Immigration Act 1971.

(b) the power of searching persons, of boarding ships or aircraft, of searching in ships or aircraft, or elsewhere and of detaining articles—

(i) for use in connection with the taking of a decision by the Secretary of State as to whether or not to make an exclusion order; or

(ii) for use in evidence in criminal proceedings.

(2) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

"aircraft" includes hovercraft,

"captain" means master (of a ship) or commander (of an aircraft),

"exclusion order" has the meaning given by section 6 of the Immigration Act 1971,

"terrorism" means acts of terrorism for the purpose of putting the public or any section of the public in fear.

(3) The Secretary of State may by order provide that, in relation to a person who is not a citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies, the provisions of sections 3, 4, and 5 of this Act shall have effect subject to such exceptions, adaptations, or modifications as may be specified in the order.

(4) An order under this section—

(a) may make different provision for different purposes; and

(b) in particular may provide for the making of different provision distinguishing between persons resident in and persons resident outside—

(i) Great Britain or Northern Ireland,

(ii) Scotland or Northern Ireland,

(iii) Wales or Northern Ireland,

(iv) any local authority in Great Britain or Northern Ireland, or

(v) any area.

7. (1) The Secretary of State may by order provide for—

(a) the arrest and detention of persons subject to exclusion orders, pending their removal pursuant to sections 3 to 5 above; and

(b) arrangements for the removal of persons pursuant to section 5 above.

(2) An order under this section may confer powers on examining officers appointed for the purposes of this section with paragraph 1(2) of Schedule 3 to the Immigration Act 1971, including—

(i) the power of arresting and detaining any person pending—

(iii) the taking of a decision by the Secretary of State as to whether or not to make an exclusion order against him, or

(iii) his removal pursuant to section 5 above.

8. (1) No order under section 1 or 3 of this Act shall be made unless (a) a draft of the order has been approved by resolution of each House of Parliament, or

(b) it is declared in the order that it appears to the Secretary of State that by reason of urgency it is necessary to make the order without a draft having been so approved.

(2) Every order under section 1 or 3 of this Act (except such an order as has been so approved) shall be laid before Parliament within 21 days of its making.

(3) An order under section 1 or 3 of this Act shall cease to have effect at the end of the period of 14 days beginning with the date on which it was made unless (a) the expiration of that period, the order has been approved by resolution of each House of Parliament, but without prejudice to anything previously done or to the making of any further order.

In reckoning for the purposes of this subsection any period of 40 days, 30 days shall be counted.

10. Any expenses incurred by the Secretary of State under, or by virtue of, this Act shall be paid out of money provided by Parliament.

11. (1) Her Majesty may by Order in Council provide that the provisions of this Act shall, with such exceptions, adaptations and modifications as may be specified in the Order, apply to any of the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

In addition, it should be noted that the Parliament debated and voted on the question of whether or not the death penalty should be re instituted for terrorist activity. This was a "free vote" in the Parliament and each member could, therefore, follow the dictates of his own conscience rather than be tied to party policy. The vote resulted in a 152 majority for no death penalty, although press announced that public opinion polls indicate approximately 75% of the British people did favor the return of the death penalty for acts of terrorism.

POWERS OF CRIMINAL COURTS ACT 1973 (3)

Powers relating to persistent offenders

Sections 28 and 29 replace the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act 1967 as to the punishment of persistent offenders.

Presentence Offer

An offer is an agreement with an offender over 21 years of age who is convicted and sentenced for an offence specified in Schedule 1 to the Criminal Justice Act 1967, and is made before the expiration of the time for the preparation of a statement of case and to have the conviction confirmed, or before the expiration of the time for the adoption of a statement of case by the chief Crown prosecutor, or before the sitting of the court to hear the conviction.

Preliminary advice

Section 28 grants a court the power to offer an offender who has been convicted of an offence of theft or a serious indictable offence, and who is convicted and sentenced for the offence, a preliminary advice in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.

The offer shall be in writing and shall state that the court is satisfied that the offender is guilty of the offence and that there is no reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

(a) The offer shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.
(b) The offer shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.
(c) The offer shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.

Compensation orders

Sections 30 to 32 replace the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act 1972 as to compensation orders.

Crown fines, etc.

Sections 33 to 34 relate to the power of the Crown to impose fines, etc. upon offenders convicted of indictable offences, and to require payment of fines and other fines, and to grant remissions of fines, and to the power of the Crown to grant remissions of fines.

(b) The Crown fines, etc. shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.
(c) The Crown fines, etc. shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.

Compensation orders against convicted persons

Sections 35 to 37 provide for compensation orders against convicted persons, and in addition to dealing with an offender who has been convicted of an offence of theft or a serious indictable offence, and who is convicted and sentenced for the offence, a preliminary advice in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.

The order shall be in writing and shall state that the court is satisfied that the offender is guilty of the offence and that there is no reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

(a) The order shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.
(b) The order shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.
(c) The order shall be made by the court in writing to the offenders, and shall be in the form of a statement of case or a statement of case.

References to Scotland and Northern Ireland

Sections 28 and 29 also indicate that a person convicted of a theft or a serious indictable offence in Scotland or Northern Ireland is convicted of an offence in Scotland or Northern Ireland, and there is no reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

Finally the unanswered crucial question not only to this inquiry, but also to the inquiry, is the answer to the question: is the defendant guilty of the offence?

(a) The sentence does not exceed five years.
(b) The maximum sentence order for the offence is less than five years.
(c) The sentence is not greater than five years.

"Police, Serge. It's going to be 15 minutes and 30 seconds; I don't want to be over 15 minutes and 30 seconds."

Powers of Criminal Courts Act 1973

Effective only when a period for appeal has elapsed and Section 37 allows such orders to be reviewed later, provided compensation has not been paid. Section 38 provides for special compensation orders to be taken into account in civil proceedings. These include the circumstances in which the case was dealt with and the order was made. The court must be satisfied that it was justified by the evidence on file. Section 39, similarly, allows compensation orders to be made in respect of the same loss or damage to which the order relates.

Greed makes them try.

Chubb makes them fail.

During 1973, this is what happened when Chubb equipment detected an intruder and gave the alarm:

- Persons arrested by police on customers’ premises following the activation of the alarm 779
- Number of capture incidents 440
- Number of incidents, not leading directly to arrest but which in practice resulted in abandonment of criminal purpose 1,923

In total 2,383 “crimes that did not pay” thanks to Chubb Alarms. These activations, audible or silent or pre-arranged combinations, range across the whole variety of systems that Chubb Alarms provide, usually in consultation with the requirements of Police and insurance authorities.

Miscellaneous powers

Powers of Criminal Courts on Community Service

Section 42 (replacing Section 29 of the Criminal Justice Act 1972) makes provision for the court to sentence under Section 29 of the Magistrates’ Courts Act 1982, or Section 3 of the Criminal Justice Act 1967, the Crown Court, after inquiring into the circumstances of the case has power to deal with the offender in any manner in which it could deal with him if it had just been convicted of the offence on indictment before the court.

Social inquiry and probation officers’ reports

Sections 45 (derived from Section 27 of the Criminal Justice Act 1967) allows the Secretary of State to make rules requiring a court, before passing a sentence on an offence punishable on indictment, to a super or other form of detention, to consider a social inquiry report about the offender and his circumstances. Further, by Section 46 (derived from Section 43 of the Criminal Justice Act 1967), an offender is made to appear in court, with a view to assisting the court in determining the most suitable method of dealing with the offender, a copy of the report is to be given by the court to the offender or his counsel or solicitor. In the case of an offender under 17 years of age who is not legally represented a copy of such a report is to be given to him but to his parent or guardian if present in court.

PART II: Administrative and supplemental provisions

Rehabilitation of offenders and arrangements for persons on bail

Provision is made in part II of the Act for the supervision and after-care service and its functions (Section 47); the power of the Secretary of State to regulate community service work and training at day training centres (Section 48); the power of the Secretary of State to approve bail hostels and probation hostels and homes (Section 49); inspection of approved bail hostels and of approved permission for residence in approved hostels (Section 50); and for expenses and grants payable out of moneys provided by Parliament (Section 51).

Miscellaneous and supplementary provisions

Evidence with respect to offences punishable with level 5 fine

Section 53, replacing the provisions of Section 59 of the Criminal Justice Act 1967, provides that for the purposes of this Act a certificate purporting to be signed by or on behalf of the Lord Advocate that an offence is punishable in Scotland with imprisonment is or is punishable in Scotland with imprisonment for a term specified in that certificate shall be evidence of the manner so certified.

Execution of process between England and Scotland

By Section 53, Sections 4 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Proceedings) Act 1930 and 2 of the Act (execution of process of English courts by Scottish courts) are continued in form as the execution of process between England and Scotland.

CONSTABLE ON THE TRACK

Finding the cause

POLICE ATTENDING A RAIL crash must always be alive to the possibility that it may have resulted from a criminal act. The cause is the responsibility of the investigator, and in other cases the facts will be presented clearly, the Police will be able to work closely with railway engineers and specialists. These investigations will always be handled with care. If the police know if they have any suspects that a crime has been committed or if they are unable to rule it out by establishing the cause. Following an accident to a train the following inquiries may be held: (1) A very searching private 'departmental inquiry' carried out by senior rail officials. (2) The Secretary of State for the Environment may order a highly qualified member of his Railway Inspectorate to conduct a public inquiry into any accident to a train on a passenger railway or any accident involving death or injury. Unlike the departmental inquiry, this has a statutory foundation - the Regulation of Railways Act 1871. The report, which may include preventive recommendations, is made public and usually includes the thoroughness of the search for truth. (3) Finally, in England and Wales, if a coroner's inquest follows if there is a feasibility. A member of the Inspectorate may be appointed summarily to assist the coroner with technical matters. This was done following the 132 deaths at Enfield in 1952. Similar arrangements may be made in Scotland to assist the local coroner.

The private departmental inquiry usually takes place within a day or two and its report will give the investigating in Scotland and vice versa) applies to any process issued under Part I of this Act or under Section 5 of the Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act 1947 as it applies to process issued under the Magistrates Courts Act 1973 by a magistrates' court. This provision replaces those in Sections 10(3) of the Criminal Justice Act 1948, Section 42(6) of the Criminal Justice Act 1947, and Section 51(3) of the Criminal Justice Act 1972.

Miscellaneous

Of the remaining sections of the Act, Section 54 gives the Secretary of State power to make rules and orders; Section 55 refers to Schedule 6 which provides transitional provisions under the Act; Section 56 refers to the amendments to various previous Acts which are outlined in Schedule 5 and the repeal of Acts or parts of Acts detailed in Schedule 4; Section 57 gives an extensive interpretation of the Act; and Sections 58 and 59 indicate the parts of the Act which are extended to Scotland and Northern Ireland (already mentioned in this summary).
Watch for thieves by David Powis, Deputy Assistant Commissioner, Metropolitan Police

One of the strangest growth industries in Britain today is fraud, and well to the fore of this form of crime is the "long term fraud," or "L.T.F." as its slang term goes. These are the conmen who defraud insurance companies, wholesalers or suppliers, and seek large quantities of goods on credit, with the intention that the account will not be paid. Conmatch fraud worthines is built up by false references from other fraudulent associates, and by ordering smaller quantities of goods in the early stages from reputable concerns, and settling these accounts promptly. The suddenly available cash can be then used to defraud other concerns in the manner described above.

The type of goods involved can run through the whole spectrum of supply, including confectionery, general foodstuffs, in both fresh and frozen form, clothing, blankets, woollens, bedding, electrical goods, furniture, tailoring materials, and so on. The goods are then sold to the public at a much higher price than the cost price. It is an industry the potential size of which has never been estimated, but it is certainly a considerable proportion of retail business.

Safety when stopping vehicles

I should now like to vary the specialized nature of these L.T.F. fraud notes, as they affect ordinary duty officers, and speak generally again about the use of vehicle lights in criminal matters. First, a neglected aspect of motor test-taking. Police officers should always be aware in mind that there is latent in very many criminals a violent, even ferocious, streak of character. This applies particularly to thieves engaged in robbery and in travelling housebreakers. If these thieves are also users of dangerous drugs, particularly the hard drugs, this natural propensity may be heightened because you may well have come across them in abnormal conditions. The same applies if you have come across them when the police or any other force has taken them into custody for a celebration. If they are in company with their womenfolk there will be a temptation to act as a social and sexual provender for the officers and their concerned guests. It is a rather disheartening disregard of the law and policemen generally. Violence is very near the surface, and particularly when the conditions at which you interrogate them in the street, at the wheel of a powerful motor car, make the previous conditions even easier for you. This means the car can be driven by you, or the driver's door can violently be opened and barged supply you with obviously primary advantage in an unforeseen situation. Never approach the vehicle in the direction of the traffic. Trusted Police are expensive and are not used. Watch for the Greater London Council registration numbers, and run C.O.O. checks on the registered owners.

Watch for commercial vehicles

The commercial vehicle that has recently left a suspect firm's premises, or its premises, might in goods, pre-arranged in the same manner. There are several types of commercial vehicles, nevertheless, different from the usual commercial vehicles on the road. For example, these goods might be delivered at a stationery, or it may be made up, by index plate manufacturers, when these are delivered. These plates can be bolted one above the other on a piece of frame. Look that there might be more than one number plate on the frame of the vehicle. The horn and glow of the Police vehicle would then be a signal for a Queen, one of Lord Trenchard's known innovations. If he has good reason to believe that he has good evidence, then he may seize the goods. Of course he may object to being told that he has good evidence. A 'N. Other's Cash and Carry' stamp by rubber stamp at the top of the page instead of proper printed forms.

Watch for suspicious vehicles

If you have to stop such a vehicle, and you are suspicious because of these factors, never show your identity. Play that you are simply checking the vehicle, and that you have been the look and examine the vehicle yourself. Remember all the details you can, keep note down as soon as the vehicle is out of sight.

So that you regard your duties in this field as informative rather than investigatory, and these aspects of suspicion allow the experienced police officer to know what a man values your information as worth while. The suspicions should not mislead you into assuming that they will make suitable inquiry difficult by carefully updating and improving the standard of their paper work, or for a longer period of knowing about them and then there. Consequently, if you have no alternative but to stop such a vehicle, the second road of a journey should be a repetition, play the part of the laconic Policeman, easily satisfied by a brik and fluent explanation, and thus blunt suspicion. You have been shown your jealousy of novelty and information, and you may be satisfied against them.

Suggested action of your jealousy and information, and you are satisfied against them.
Watch for thieves

May, through extreme political views, intend harm to the community. He is seen to be a threat. While there are subtle differences between these types of extremists and thieves it is difficult to peg one's finger on material distinctions, but they seem to share a common enthusiasm or dedication, whatever their appearance, a shyness that can be strikingly similar in both. They are highly disciplined in criminal ways and are therefore (as Special Patrol Group experience has shown) more likely to be the ones who scum out when making false claims, or use counterfeit licences, both of which can be quickly obvious to a keen Police eye.

A new course in physical training
"You are the first officers to have successfully completed this new course..." This Service has needed something like this for years and I am delighted that this centre was chosen for the purpose.

These remarks followed the presentation of awards and certificates by Mr. G. W. R. Terry, Chief Constable of Sussex and chairman of the Chief Constables Committee for Sandgate and Ashford Police Training Centres, to the nine officers who had just completed the first of a series of courses in physical training at Grovener Hall P.T.C., Ashford, Kent.

Earlier, Chief Supr. E. A. Walker, staff officer (Training), Inspectors (of Constabulary) had explained how the course had come about. With Mr. J. W. Houghton, secretary of the British Association for Physical Training and Sergt. Martin Spencer (City of London), a Fellow of the B.A.P.T. and the course tutor, the officer had organized the first course - which sought to qualify existing and potential P.T.Ls. for the Home Office Police training centre as well as some members of the Force and Cadet training departments. The four-week course covered the theory and practice of physical training - including most aspects of gymnastics work, track and field athletics, sports, and games, and circuit training. The B.A.P.T. had focused on anatomy, physiology, and health and had conducted examination in the practical and theoretical work of a P.T.I. All the candidates had passed these examinations and had been granted the membership certificate of the B.A.P.T., admitting them to membership and further grading in due course. In addition the nine officers had gained A.S.A. Speaking to suspect drivers in their vehicles. Either has an unmistakable smell, this is used in the manufacture of LSD and the odour can permeate clothing for a long time. A pipe- line smell, yet similar to the usual soap, may indicate the presence in the car of cannabis.

Any unusual chemical odour emanating from a vehicle should be investigated. There is a marked variance between the smell on the breath of a driver who has had beer, and one who has drunk spirits. The latter is much more potent and will permeate clothing for a long time. In such a case the latter smell can be invaluable consideration for you in deciding whether or not to investigate further.

The pressured cans that spray deodorant or "air freshener" have themselves a slight but distinctive odour, slightly differing from brand to brand. The pressure can sprays in a vehicle, otherwise dirty and untidy, can be very suspicious. Are the occupants trying to mask the smell of cannabis or some other illegal chemical smell? Bear this mind in mind on those motorway stops and good luck!
Social mobility and stress affecting Police officers

by Peter Dawson

Mr. Dawson, a psychologist, was educated at the University of Leeds and has done research in the Department of Social Science at St. Andrews. He is a member of the Department of Social Science at Middlesex College, an associate of the Royal Institute of Public Health and Hygiene, and a member of the Psychological Association. His article was submitted by the Special Assistant to the Chief Supt. T. H. Hayton (P.R. No. 4582).

The war and for some time afterwards people were easily classified in terms of social class. Now it is not easy. During the last few years there has been a great increase in social mobility and though this may be desirable it is the cause of some problems.

I would like to mention these problems of social mobility in the Force, one is the fact that a man is the basic unit in the Police force.

Take an example of what a Police officer feels three years ago as an extreme example of mobility: the village idiot. In years past he sat outside the pub and nothing much was expected from him and he did not expect much in return for his efforts.

Today the social officer has been taken under his wing and dealt with in a very different way. Nothing much was expected from him and he did not expect much in return for his efforts.

This helps dispel the fact that the Police officer is the one who is the "black sheep" of the family. In reality there are many of them. The Police officer is a great example of the "symbolic sibling" and if nothing else he is a very important member of the family.

No more public mischief

For forty years the "public mischief" charge has been a convenient way of dealing with charge-room arguments which begin "Yes, but what have they done?"

"Public mischief" means any act of mischief in the public place with the purpose of obstructing the peace.

The Police officer who is charged with a public mischief charge is likely to be held in custody for a time. The Police officer who is charged with a public mischief charge is likely to be held in custody for a time. The Police officer who is charged with a public mischief charge is likely to be held in custody for a time. The Police officer who is charged with a public mischief charge is likely to be held in custody for a time.

When the Police Advisory Council
starts its inquiry I hope it takes note
of what members of the Special Constabu-ary have to say and does not allow
only to regular officers.

Sir, M.R. Price should not blame the Specials for the lack of increased Police Service. It is about time the two sides were brought together about inviting a Special to his case at the next Federation conference—KEN ORME (Special Sergeant, Merseyside Police).

Hypocritical

Sir,—The subject of the Special Constabulary is a matter of grave con-temtion recently in your columns but the most pointed remarks come from Sergt.
Les Male, the Police Federation chair-mans (P.R. no. 4528). He stated that it was "absolutely impossible to straight talking on this subject". He then went on to list all the best reasons for reorganising the Specials.

One of the main Federation objections to the Special Constabulary appears to be the fact that they are unpaid volunteers and thus pay and recruiting of the regular Forces. Is the Federation against voluntary community work? It would appear to be.

The Police Service has no laurels to rest on when one reads what the Federation think about this subject, for the Police have one of the largest volunteer labour groups in the whole community.

How many Police officers are involved in social and youth clubs, in the work of the Red Cross, the St. John Ambu-ulance Brigade, and other such organi-Sations? Does their presence affect members of those organisations who are paid for their work? Does it affect recruiting? Does the Police Federation get any sympathy from organised officers to do outside voluntary work?

In recent years the Cadets have been encouraged to do their bit for the home and carry on social work. Can the Federation justify this policy? In my view the Federation is being hypocritical on this subject.

Training Specials also comes in for comment. "They should be employed only on duties approved by their training. What on earth does Mr. Male mean? Training goes on all the time even without specific instruction on the job in the company of an experienced officer. The only way for a Special to become good for his job is to ensure that he continues practical training." As Mr. Male said.

I would be the first to agree that the Special Constabulary needs revitalising, but it can do without criticism of the manner in which it is needed for emergency work only.
In the present political and social climate the Police officers are needed to help us all do the job of those who will not be able to. He should not ask us to do the job of those who will not be able to give help.

The Special Constabulary needs a new rank structure and the present system in the T&AVR might be worth a closer look.

When the Police Advisory Council
starts its inquiry I hope it takes note
of what members of the Special Constabu-
ary have to say and does not allow
only to regular officers.

Sir, M.R. Price should not blame the
Specials for the lack of increased Police Service. It is about time the two sides were brought together about inviting a Special to
his case at the next Federation conference—
KEN ORME (Special Sergeant, Mer-
seyside Police).

Whipping boys

Sir,—From the remarks made at the Police Federation conference by Sergt.
Les Male, the Special Constabulary became the "whipping boy" in the Federation's efforts to improve regular Police wages and conditions.

While we concede that we cannot match the expertise of the profession we are more than willing to learn and improve our performance by working alongside them. It must surely be obvious to Federation delegates that it is the unqualified hours that make recruiting difficult and not the fact that Specials are used to augment an already dirigently stretched Police Force.

I have often heard the remark about
"our unions would never allow us offered our services free" but those who say this are in a minority. On the whole our services are accepted in the spirit in which they are given. May I remind Federation delegates that the special profession did not blame their low wages on the Red Cross or the St. John Ambulance Brigade or anyone else who helps in hospital work (even Cadets). They blamed themselves because they owed G. EAST (Special Constable, East).}

More Police powers needed

Sir,—Is there not something wrong with the field of operations within a Police officer? According to recent press reports Ronald Barnes of the Merseyside Police detailed Miss Judith Ward for something he could do but not decide upon. As it turned out Miss Ward was subsequently charged with the M62 coach explosion, and was figured in the Labour case. How different the situation might have been had Miss Ward not been subsequently charged, but instead had brought civil proceedings against the Constable for unlawful arrest. If the latter course had been taken it would have no doubt that Christine V.
Leach would have been questioned, again in with other car cases, and arrests in uncertain circumstances have taken place.

It is right that Police officers should be exposed to these areas of uncertainty and it not the time come to provide them with the necessary and sufficient powers to enable them to carry out their duties without the inherent risks that the present state of the law places upon them.

Sergeant M. R. Price
Secretary, Police Superintendents' Association of England and Wales.

Violence to children

Sir,—Congratulations on your no.
4270 article to yourself for securing it, and for including the pictures of the boys seen in The Sun. If the article gets the response it merits, it deserves, and this very much to be hoped, will encourage the police and more worthwhile advances in Police protection of children.

Having so well and vividly secured the attention of the public, we see that Powis should now round off an excellent job with some thoughts on serious matters: directed to the point of Police action in so-called "non-agents" cases of child neglect. It is no doubt still the order in the London Metropolitan Police, and probably in most other Forces, that non-agents cases of child neglect should be notified to, or left with, the N.S.P.C.C. No doubt the partners of social services now involved in child-neglect cases now is a minority agent too. The public mind needs to be made aware of this. A non-agents case may be of no necessity to the Police at

POLICE REVIEW 6 December 1976

POLICE REVIEW 6 December 1976
 Current Topics

Reaction to Starr report

In a leading article in The Times (29 November), noting that the Home Secretary has indicated that further investigation into the actions of the police officers concerned was justified, ground for further investigation into the actions of the police officers concerned, it was concluded that the only result of the Starr report is a document with conditions attached, that it is, in its opinion, and in the range of its search, "an inquiry by the police into the activities of the police is always open to the charge of partiality, justified or not. In this case the method of inquiry itself was unsatisfactory. Because of the pressure of time, it was confused to examination of the case papers and Police officers had no time to discuss with the service police officers concerned." The N.C.C.L. is stated to have contended with the release of the report, asks for an independent public inquiry into the activities of the Special Branch and their relations with the Director of Public Prosecutions. "At a time when the Police are being given unprecedented powers to deal with terrorism, it is essential that the Special Branch be made publicly accountable for its actions."

The Security of the State

David Gorer, in a common debate on civil liberties Mr. Alexander Lyon, Minister of State, Home Office, said: "The acceptability of what took place in relation to Kenneth Linton was different from the acceptability of what took place in relation to the recent events in Northern Ireland. The Home Secretary was not there to defend grounds for believing that the Police version of what took place was more credible and more cogent. But these matters are now laid before the public, because both versions are publicly available."

"I accept that there will still be room for dispute about who is telling the truth, but I believe that we are moving away from my point of view, having read both sides of the story, I retract what I said before. I believe that the arguments to which I referred are no longer cogent grounds for believing that the Police were responsible. It is now a matter of deciding which version is more credible than the version provided by Mr. Linton." "I do not say that with any air of complacency and we shall continue to investigate with acquisitiveness any suggestion that the number of Special Constables in Scotland decreased during 1973 and stresses the value of Specials in protecting the relationships between the Police and the public."

Sentences too lenient

Lord Elwyn-Jones, Lord Chancellor, referring to the case of Mr. Leslie Smith at Elsho Vale said that certain sentences were too lenient and, in that sense, out of line with public opinion. He was of course voicing views expressed by many people, not least the Police, that sentences for crimes for which there was an element of intent or enrichment, were often hopelessly inadequate. "We will pursue it and in all cases we will ensure that the punishment their crimes deserved." Included among those about whom he expressed concern were those about whom it would not be allowed to pay, he said, was the landlord who was tensed until they left his premises which he then relet at an enhanced rent. Such a person, he said, should be found an amount which would deprive him of any of these ill-gotten gains. Blaming the lack of responsibility of parents for much juvenile delinquency, Lord Elwyn-Jones said that if it was found that it is normal practice to be the first and others that it was normal practice to be the first in the line of succession, he said that the police were determined to be the first in the line of succession. He said that he would not be the first in the line of succession. He said that the police were determined to be the first in the line of succession. He said that the police were determined to be the first in the line of succession. He said that the police were determined to be the first in the line of succession.

Bonus for urban Police

Police officers get extra money working in densely populated urban areas, says a report by Merseyside Police Authority to the Association of Metropolitan Authorities. The Police Authority has pressed the A.M.A. to make the introduction of a separate pay settlement for urban forces. Important factors leading to the vacancies in the force, said the report, were financial rewards received by Police officers and their families in the move to less urban forces. Police officers in densely populated urban areas were often put in a strenuous, demanding, and often dangerous.

Merseyside Police

Merseyside Police inquired serious manpower deficiencies and there is little doubt that under normal circumstances the problem will get worse rather than better," continues the report, and it goes on to say that "the Police Committee of the Merseyside County Council feels that the only possible solution lies in the payment of a special settlement to meet some of its needs and that such payment should be applied to other metropolitan county areas where similar problem exists."

Scottish Police strength up

The number of Police officers in Scotland increased by 222 in 1973 bringing the total number to 11,472, according to the annual report of H.M. Chief Inspector of Constabulary for Scotland. The report, by Mr. David Gray, whose report is printed in (H.S.M. 148. 34). "It may wisely reduce the introduction in the number of crimes made known to the Police with a noticeable decrease in break-ins but in the course of this review these hopes may be curtailed by the increased vigilance of the traders and property owners and their efforts to improve security of their premises."

Despite much publicised warnings too many motorists continue to drink and drive, says the report. The report expresses disappointment that the Prevention of Terrorism Act 1974 (Temporary Provisions) Act 1974 covers four areas.

- It first provides the I.R.A. and Sinn Fein and those suspected of an offence under this provision, to make exclusion orders including the I.R.A. and Sinn Fein.
- Second, it makes it possible to exclude suspects from the I.R.A. and Sinn Fein and those suspected of an offence under this provision.
- Third, it gives the Police wide powers to arrest and detain suspected terrorists.
- Fourth, it enables the Secretary of State by order to set up a security control on all travellers entering and leaving Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

The Prevention of Terrorism (Supplementary Temporary Provisions) Order 1974

This order provides for the examination of people entering and leaving Great Britain both to and from Eire and Northern Ireland and to and from countries overseas. It also excludes foreign prisoners on its orders to examine travellers, to demand documents, and to carry out searches.

It provides for the removal from this country of people against whom an exclusion order has been made and for the arrest and detention of subject to examination or removal. Answers to last week's questions (48)

1. You are submitting a road accident file with a contention for prosecution under s. 60, 1925. The report states that the signals causing death by dangerous driving were not working. Is all the evidence to prove the charge as to the signals, or as to the driving, to be given in the evidence to prove the charge as to the driving? (5)

(a) What points must you particularly consider where it is not possible to identify the person who was killed in order that appropriate action may be taken? (4)

(b) How can you be sure that evidence is available at the hearing? These points are:

1. That the deceased should be identified.
2. That driving with the same identity as the identity of the victim, if possible.
3. That the deceased was killed by a vehicle for which the deceased was killed. (3)

2. That the dangerous driving was a real cause of the death of the deceased, as opposed to being a means of escape. It is not necessary to show that it was the sole cause: R. v. Carver (1937) 140 J.S.R. 191; R. v. Green (1963) 3 All E.R. 847; R. v. Amman (1971) 3 All E.R. 103.

(a) A post mortem has been performed and your recommendations about the charge have been approved. What information must be sent to the coroner both before and after the post mortem and who is responsible for sending it? (2)

In practice the coroner should be notified by the Police when the body is to be sent for examination to the coroner, and the prosecution should keep the coroner informed of the charges when the body is examined. (3)

(b) In what circumstances would it be desirable to take evidence of the condition of the deceased before the time of death? After the time of death it should be the duty of the coroner to examine the body and make notes of any observations made. (2)

(c) Is it necessary to send any report to the Board of Trade if the deceased was killed in an accident at sea? (2)

(d) No, but the Board of Trade should be informed. (2)

3. The application for the charge of dangerous driving has been filed and the vehicle is in the possession of the Police. If the vehicle is sold to the Police, would the owner still be responsible for the charge? (2)

Yes, the re-bailment of the vehicle by the Police is a contempt of the law and the owner would still be responsible for the charge. (2)

4. In the case of a vehicle which has been in an accident, is it necessary to detail the injuries to all the occupants? (2)

Yes, it is necessary to detail the injuries to all the occupants, as well as the driver, before the accident. (2)

5. If a certificate of insurance states that a vehicle is not insured for loss by fire, and the vehicle is in an accident involving fire, what must the owner do? (2)

The owner must report the accident to the insurance company and seek insurance coverage for the loss. (2)

Terrorism Act

Section 3 empowers the Secretary of State to have a person who is subject to an exclusion order and who has been served with notice of the exclusion order from Great Britain. A person may not however be removed without his consent unless representations have been duly made by him under Section 4 of the Act and has been notified to the Secretary of State. The section follows equivalent provisions in the 1939 Act. The provisions relating to the procedures for removing persons subject to an exclusion order are contained in Section 2 under Part II.

Section 6 deals with exclusion orders made against a person who is not a citizen of the United Kingdom and is in the United Kingdom. Such orders may be made if it is in the public interest that the person be removed from Great Britain. Section 6 therefore makes specific provisions for the power to apply for an exclusion order against a person who is not a citizen of the United Kingdom. This will make it possible, among other things, for the Secretary of State to make an exclusion order against a person who is subject to an exclusion order in Northern Ireland.

Part III—Arrest and detention
Section 7 empowers the Secretary of State and the police to bring into custody a person who has been served with notice of the exclusion order and whose action the police can take. It is difficult to think that the Secretary of State would take any action unless he is satisfied that the person is being subject to an exclusion order and has been notified to him. This provision will for example enable the Secretary of State to enter and search a property to ascertain whether a person is being subject to an exclusion order and has been notified to him. The provision will also enable the Secretary of State to enter and search a property to ascertain whether a person is being subject to an exclusion order and has been notified to him.

Notices of abatement
I should like to know whether a local authority has power to serve a statutory notice on the occupier of premises in connection with an alleged offence under the 1939 Act. Section 2 of the Act provides that a local authority shall have power to serve a statutory notice on the occupier of premises for the purpose of securing that the premises are not used for an unlawful purpose. The Act defines what constitutes an unlawful purpose and also the Health Protection (Recreational Activities) Act 1969, which gives local authorities power to serve a notice, and although it would appear that a local authority does not have this power under Section 27 the position is not clear.

Answer—Public Health Act 1939
This is a vague area of law, after considering the two Acts you mention, we have arrived at the same view as you do. That is, the Secretary of State has no power to serve a statutory notice on the occupier of premises under Section 11 of the Act. This provision has also been confirmed by a local authority public health department.

Drunk at Police station
I am of the opinion that the public counter at a Police station is a public place and that a person who is being drunk and disorderly can be arrested. The Secretary of State for the Home Department has stated that such a person is not being drunk and disorderly, and disorderly, and the Police have been summoned to attend. On arrival of the Police this person continues to be disorderly and the question arises as to whether the Police can take action. I find it difficult to think that the Secretary of State would take any action unless he is satisfied that the person is being subject to an exclusion order and has been notified to him, and that although the definition of public place includes every place to which the public have access, this is distinguished from cases where the public have access to the public place because they are a particular individual or a particular group of people. We added however, that the public may well take the opposite view and it is possible that a court would consider that the Police station is a public place for the purposes of the 1939 Act. Also I would draw your attention to the Licensing Act 1964, which gives a power of arrest for persons drunk and insane etc. and "dealt with according to law". In Patterson's it is stated that: "A person apprehended may be dealt with according to law under the town Police Clauses Act 1847, the Metropolitan Police Act 1841, the Southwark Police Act 1843, and the City of London Police Act 1839, from which those Acts apply, also under Section 12 of the Act 1842." I am not aware of any offence of simple drunkenness under the town Police Clauses Act 1847, but can see no implication in the definition of public place for drunken or insane people. Guidelines may possibly be obtained from the provisions of Section 36 of the Criminal Justice Act 1972, which defines the place in which the purposes of the Act are to be carried out.
including "any highway and any other premises or place to which at the time the public or any persons are or may be entitled to come, whether on payment or otherwise." A doubt concerning difficulties under the 1956 Act, such as those experienced in Cooper v. Shield (1971) 2 All E.R. 517, would not fall outside the present definition of "premises." Indeed, I read that Act. By analogy, courts may now have a wider interpretation of "public place" for the discovery of public nuisances.

that I had been left alone at the end of that hit about "practical Coppers". My old skool was.Vho is it going to say that the man who passed his promotion exams was a "practical Copper" and the man who failed was a "practical Copper". It was of course the failures who said it, until someone discovered that a pratical Copper couldn't do that if you didn't know it.

The author's chapter on the leadership of the Metropolitan Police is too
"glossy" for my liking and he seems be to have himself become too embraced in the politics of Scotland Yard to view the leadership question objectively. However, he makes up for this sin (if it is a sin) with an excellent concluding chapter on the future of the Police which ought to be

On the whole The Police Revolution is another Peter Evans winner but its appeal will probably be greater for the layman looking for some penetrating insights into Police problems than for the Policeman who knows them well enough.

Purge patrol

short story by Peter N. Walker

No one really knew who started the Purge. Once under way however it spread like the plague and infected all who came in contact with it. A sole disguised a lone Outlaw to a half sane, mentally disturbed man.
Every Policeman in the Force area was said to be involved. The Outlaw was the Son of the Superintendent.

In the course of his duties on occasion assumed the blame of the "higher-ups"
when ordered to do so.

In turn they were thought the whole affair had been planned by the Superintendents.

The fact that many Officers were never seen over the wide spread of the world was no consequence.

But in a certain town within the Force area one man was noticeably shameless above these dubious rules of honour. He belonged to P.C. Obst Futilethistle, whose name was somewhat prevalent in any circumstances and particularly so in these times of northwest banking. It was his duty to begin the investigation on the fact that Constable Obst-Futilethistle had out of an offence report for some considerable time. Actually it was the Secretary who mentioned to the Superintendent, just in case the Superintendent would mention it to him. The Breath-Slaps, who is Obst-Futilethistle must be heard, hated the Purge was enough of a nuisance, but he was not very much in the register of offences reported.

"Look, led"-the Sergeant adopted a friendly approach and showed him the report. "These are your reports and your name is not near them.

"Have you any explanation?"

"Oh! This somewhat took the Superintendent for he'd expected a wealth of ingenuity, excuses, such as "studying for promotion exam," "sick," "on leave," "sick leave," etc."

"Nothing to do with the Superintendent noticed the absence of that particular report.

"Postlethwaite is not very active, is he, Inspector? Have you done anything about him?"
"What's he doing about it?" persisted the Superintendent.
"He has spoken to Postlethwaite, sir, and what has Postlethwaite done," replied the Inspector.
"Have you considered reporting him for an offence against the Disciplinary Code? I think to obey a lawful order, perhaps?"
"Not really, sir," the Inspector admitted.
"Then see to it, Inspector."-the Superintendent.

The outcome was that P.C. Postlethwaite, with seven years' unblemished character and a brief case, found himself upon the carpet in the Chief Constable's office. The odd thing was that during all the preliminary hearings and inquiries, Postlethwaite had said not one word about his errant behavior. He had his "reply" ready and even everyone's questions and he was, strangely enough, before the Chief Constable in person.

He divided the Superintendent in a row of small desks, and the prosecution team was there with 15 full registers of offence reports.
The Chief Constable listened to the wealth of evidence against Postlethwaite. Constable Percy Cade had over 1,000 offences on his record, most of those committed in the dark, and his specialty was double white lies, although he did have one case of cruelty.

FRANK ELMES
ON PENSIONS

INFLATION CREATE MANY uncertainties but nowhere is the element of worry stronger than among those whose entire income consists of their state retirement pensions. National Insurance pensions, while adequate for some, will barely sustain living standards for others, the great majority of whom are quite satisfied with their standard of living, may well be threatened in the future. This is a double fulcrum, it is a threat to living standards for many, and the uncertainty that is to come is a vital threat to retirement pensions.

Government determined to overcome inflation might thus try to introduce living standards adjustment or similar security benefits to provide the easiest starting point for such a policy.

A first tentative step
It is here that the Social Contract, shabbily as it is, provides some comfort. Among the conditions which are accepted by government in return for co-operation by trade unions is protection for the worst off—pensioners, social security beneficiaries, and the poorly paid.

It has escaped the notice of many observers that this is a constructive means by which to introduce a relatively straightforward and simple system of Social Contract (for example 1960 standards of 1950 standards) but giving a boost to the well-being of the poor public. Many of these, however, are living on or below the poverty line.

Public service pensioners, including the Police, are more interested in their occupational pensions than in social security benefits. Many of them are not drawing retirement pensions, and a large number have not even thought of it.

To be more specific, the Police, and especially the Constable, are more interested in their pension than in social security benefits. Many of them are not drawing retirement pensions, and a large number have not even thought of it.

"You know, sir," the Superintendent said one day, "I can't help thinking about the occasional report, just to let us know you are working, you know." He added Postlethwaite.

Obert Postlethwaite’s crime prevention prevention principle is that all statements should be as factual as possible, to point to which various social agencies came to discuss their problems.

Frankly evasive
Pre-election tactics by members of government in relation to Naipo and F.C.C. were urged at an extraordinary meeting of the four-confederation Snail, held in the USA, at the beginning of the year. The meeting was attended by representatives of the National Insurance, Pensions, and Social Security Committees, who discussed the two-day seminar on "The COMMON Crime, and the Poor" held in Ayr this week.

A day of looking at pensions and cost of living in relation to protection. For the worst off is one approach. It can also be plausibly argued that to increase pensions to meet increases in living costs is now inflationary. This is a double fulcrum, but it is certain that such adjustments do make upward spiral of inflation harder to check—the crucial fact being that reduction in living standards is as good an answer for inflation as any other economic remedy which has been touted as a "solution." It is so. Governments determined to overcome inflation might thus try to introduce living standards adjustment or similar security benefits to provide the easiest starting point for such a policy.

Many of these, however, are living on or below the poverty line.

Public service pensioners, including the Police, are more interested in their occupational pensions than in social security benefits. Many of them are not drawing retirement pensions, and a large number have not even thought of it.

To be more specific, the Police, and especially the Constable, are more interested in their pension than in social security benefits. Many of them are not drawing retirement pensions, and a large number have not even thought of it.

"You know, sir," the Superintendent said one day, "I can’t help thinking about the occasional report, just to let us know you are working, you know." He added Postlethwaite.

Obert Postlethwaite’s crime prevention principle is that all statements should be as factual as possible, to point to which various social agencies came to discuss their problems.

Frankly evasive
Pre-election tactics by members of government in relation to Naipo and F.C.C. were urged at an extraordinary meeting of the four-confederation Snail, held in the USA, at the beginning of the year. The meeting was attended by representatives of the National Insurance, Pensions, and Social Security Committees, who discussed the two-day seminar on "The COMMON Crime, and the Poor" held in Ayr this week.

A day of looking at pensions and cost of living in relation to protection. For the worst off is one approach. It can also be plausibly argued that to increase pensions to meet increases in living costs is now inflationary. This is a double fulcrum, but it is certain that such adjustments do make upward spiral of inflation harder to check—the crucial fact being that reduction in living standards is as good an answer for inflation as any other economic remedy which has been touted as a "solution." It is so. Governments determined to overcome inflation might thus try to introduce living standards adjustment or similar security benefits to provide the easiest starting point for such a policy.

A first tentative step
It is here that the Social Contract, shabbily as it is, provides some comfort. Among the conditions which are accepted by government in return for co-operation by trade unions is protection for the worst off—pensioners, social security beneficiaries, and the poorly paid. It has escaped the notice of many observers that this is a constructive means by which to introduce a relatively straightforward and simple system of Social Contract (for example 1960 standards of 1950 standards) but giving a boost to the well-being of the poor public. Many of these, however, are living on or below the poverty line.

Public service pensioners, including the Police, are more interested in their occupational pensions than in social security benefits. Many of them are not drawing retirement pensions, and a large number have not even thought of it.

Police Constable, North Wales Police.

Conference point

Sir,—I sometimes wonder when people write about our Police being the leaders of the world whether for every step we advance some older step is being taken by the others. I am a resident best Policeman stationed about seven miles from my village. I do not sit on a motor cycle. I have no radio, only a Pylon paper and I have to make four conference points each shift (as do all officers in my division whether on radio or not).

I admit that these conference points have their benefits, particularly at night because the office man will tell me telephone me to telephone me that I am safe.

But many of the Inspectors and Se-cators under whom I work believe conference points are the bane and ruin of all Police work. The sort of remark one hears is: "Don't chase that pocket-pint, you've got a point in five minutes at the corner of Mill Road." On my way to a conference point recently a man reportedly had reported him for a few minor traffic offences. It is a remarkable fact that in 10 minutes late secreted to be sidered marauder by the Sergeant on scene, I got the impression only minor injury was involved which could be a good enough reason for the occurrence.

Is this a modern Police Force? In my opinion it is. The conferences still produce appointments when present although

I know that many stations have since abandoned them. Have I heard

Review readers similar experiences and traditions still being carried on?—JOHN PEARSON

Lyke Wake walk for charity

Since early 1967 students attending initial training courses at the Police Training Centre Dunblane have taken part in the Lyke Wake Walk and throughout this year, on 20 and 21 September, 28 numbers of staff and students from Justice Courses 7 and 8 took part in the 24 mile race in aid of charity. Everyone successfully completed the walk in just under 11 hours and the £150 sum of £154. Later, at the pass-out dinner of Course 7, 250 cheques for equal amounts were presented by P.J. Holmes (Steve), to Mr. J. J. McMillan, President of the Ayrshire Branch of the Sunday League, and by P.C. Greg (West) in the name of the Police Department Trust. This is an annual walk of some 41 miles over some of the toughest terrains in the North Yorkshire Moors, beginning at Osmotherly and then walking east to Ravenston on the coast a few miles north of Scarborough. The walk is over long distances of rough moorland, steep cliffs and streams, and bogland, and the weather conditions vary enormously from below freezing to extremely hot but cold with dense fog and driving rain. To qualify for a certificate from the Lyke Wake Club the walk must be completed within 24 hours.

Forty-one pairs of staff and students from the Training Centre completed a total of 1,037 miles (male and female), with only one entry for Course 7 and one only of 103 miles failed to complete it. As a direct competition it is reported that at 18 June 1972 215 pairs from all walks of life set out on a sponsored walk over this course and only 19 poor weather conditions overhead had to be taken off the moors by the rescue services and only one of them completed the course.

Section 5(3) of the Children and Young Persons Act (Northern Ireland) 1968.

To (Scotland Section 1(1) of the Summary Jurisdiction (Scotland) Act 1954 (Chief Constable may in certain cases accept bail) shall not apply to a person detained in right of an arrest under this section.

Procedure of removal

Section 8, together with paragraph 1 of Schedule 2, empowers the Secretary of State to set up by order for the removal from Great Britain or Northern Ireland. Section 10 also empowers the Secretary of State to provide by order for the removal from Great Britain of persons subject to exclusion orders.

The control envisaged is essentially a security control and not an immigration control. The usual sense of what are illegal immigrants enclosed in the order have parallel in the provisions of Section 2 to the Immigration Act 1971.

Sections 9 and 10 are procedural. Section 9 enables the Act to be extended to the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

Section 12 provides that Sections are to be applied at the end of six months unless continued in force by an order under the section.

Section 13 provides that Part 1 of this Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland.

Army pressure in Ulster pays off

By Brig. W. F. K. Thompson
Defence Correspondent

STEADILY increasing pressure which security forces have been bringing against the IRA and other terrorist organisations is revealed in statistics produced by the Army in Ulster over the past year.

They show that as the number of terrorists in prison increased, the number of shootings and explosions has declined.

In July 1972, there were 2,470 shooting incidents and 134 explosions. By February 1973, the number of shooting incidents had dropped to 765, and explosions had dropped to 46.

In sectarian killings, 10 military and 25 civilians were killed and 25 wounded, and six terrorists were killed by the security forces.

At the end of the month, the garrison was down to 18,000, and on the last day of December, 327 Loyalists and Republicans were killed and 84 wounded and 15 terrorists were killed by the security forces.

The garrison was down to 18 battalions, and on the last day of March, 110 Loyalists and 75 Republicans were killed in prison.

There were 700 shooting incidents and 113 explosions. Twelve Loyalists and 21 Republicans were murdered in sectarian killings; 11 soldiers were killed and 68 wounded. The large number of wounded was due to a bomb going off outside an Army Recreation Centre. Six soldiers were killed by security forces.

Since Operation Motorman, 1,521 weapons and 229,495 rounds of ammunition have been recovered from Loyalists, and 2,077 weapons and 288,411 rounds of ammunition from the IRA.

DATE: 1/31/75

FROM: SAC, CHICAGO (105-34113) (P)

SUBJECT: IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY (IRA)
IS-IRELAND

Referenced Bureau letter directed Chicago to determine whether a separate investigation regarding subjects was warranted, and to advise Bureau of results and contemplated investigation. It is also noted that the Chicago Office of the U.S. Customs is also conducting an investigation regarding the IRA and these individuals, and close contact has been maintained with U.S. Customs by this office.

The Bureau will be advised regarding arrangements made between this office and U.S. Customs for any joint investigation to be conducted.

Review of this matter indicates the basic allegation regarding the individuals mentioned in referenced letter involves a violation under the primary investigative jurisdiction of U.S. Customs. This allegation has been properly deferred under existing interagency agreements to U.S. Customs for appropriate investigation and the referenced letter indicates Customs is conducting active investigation.

Therefore, in the absence of any information indicating these individuals are engaged in violations of U.S. laws under the primary investigative jurisdiction of the FBI, further investigation by your office regarding these individuals should not be conducted. Bureau interposes no objection to your maintaining contact with Customs for an exchange of intelligence information; however, you should not conduct active investigation regarding these individuals nor should you conduct joint interviews with Customs as indicated in referenced letter.

When these individuals are no longer under investigative interest to Customs you may submit recommendations for appropriate investigation including interviews of these individuals, if same is warranted.

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY (IRA)

The Irish Republican Army (IRA) is a para-military organization which developed out of the Irish-British warfare in the early 1900's. Since the mid-1930's the IRA, a predominantly Gaelic, Catholic underground group, has dedicated its efforts to forcing an end to British domination of Northern Ireland.

Re: NYlet to the Bureau, dated 7/31/75, and to the Bureau, dated 9/29/75.

For the information of the Bureau and receiving offices, captioned organization does not exist as such in the United States. This case has been completely reviewed as of captioned date. All outstanding investigation regarding the Irish Republican Army has been completed, and no leads are currently outstanding.

Any investigation regarding Irish matters is conducted under the respective Irish organizational caption or under the title name of the particular Irish national or Irish American citizen.
NY_100-7827

Therefore, the New York Office is conducting no further investigation into captioned organization at this time. All incoming communications, news clippings, and periodicals received by the NYO under the IRA caption will be appropriately filed, and if any investigation is warranted in this case, the NYO will handle same under IRA caption.

dated 2/8/76, captioned as above, prepared by MRL: jmr.

This letter is in response to a Departmental Criminal Division request for the FBI to set out what investigation may be conducted by us concerning captioned matter. We are advising the Department we will conduct the investigation requested of us
by the Registration Unit of the Department in their letters 1/26/76 and 2/11/76. New York and Legat, London, are being instructed to conduct the investigation requested by the Department.
TO: DIRECTOR, FBI

ReLONairtel 2/5/76 captioned as above and Busairtel
2/23/76 captioned "Irish Northern Aid Committee (INAC); The Irish People; Registration Act - Northern Ireland,"

As set out in referenced Bureau airtel, FBHQ representative attended an inter-agency conference on 2/6/76 initiated by the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice.
The purpose of this meeting was to determine what additional action could be taken concerning alleged gun running and Fund raising by the IRA or its sympathizers in the U.S.

As a result of this meeting the Registration Unit of the Department directed the FBI to conduct certain investigations, which were previously described in detail in referenced Bureau Airtel, so as to determine whether the INAC was accurately reporting its funding activities to the Registration Unit of the Department of Justice. Other U.S. agencies in attendance at this meeting, such as the U.S. Customs Service have initiated investigations based on its jurisdictional responsibilities concerning alleged illegal activities involving the shipment of funds on the part of the INAC and/or the IRA or its sympathizers within the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is continuing its investigations of illegal purchases and shipments of weapons from the U.S. destined for Northern Ireland.

On 2/19/76, an FBIHQ representative attended an inter-agency conference chaired by Assistant Deputy Secretary of State for European Affairs Richard D. Vine. The purpose of this meeting was to have a one year overview of the activities of U.S. government agencies in regard to the current internal conflict in Northern Ireland. At the conclusion of the meeting
Mr. Vine stated he was satisfied that the responsible U.S.
government agencies were conducting all possible investigations concerning captioned organization and its sympathizers in the U.S. Mr. Vine also noted that British Government spokesmen apparently have recently in public statements overstated the importance of the U.S. as a source of weapons and funds for captioned organization.
